NEGLECTED CHILD DIES

Mother Under Arrest Is Indifferent to Offspring's Fate—Tragic Case.

Surrounded by filth, showing plainly many marks of neglect, the 4-year-old daughter of Mrs. Catherine Klenke died yesterday morning of spasmodic croup, while the mother was incarcerated in the city jail on charges of drunkenness. A short time after the little one's death had been announced the unnatural mother was taken before Judge Murphy in the city court, where she was severely scolded by the court and the assistant city attorney. The sentence of the court was thirty days in jail, with no alternative. Sentence, however, was suspended long enough to permit the woman to attend the funeral of her dead daughter.

Mrs. Klenke was arrested on Thursday while on one of her periodical sprees. At the time of the arrest it was reported that her child was critically ill with the whooping cough and that during the illness had been sadly neglected. At police headquarters the woman showed no signs of humiliation when she was locked up in the woman's ward. Yesterday morning Desk Sergeant Joseph Critchlow went to the woman's cell and the following dialogue occurred:

"How old is your sick baby?"

"Four years next January."

"Do you know how it is getting along this morning?"

"I guess it's dead."

"That is just what it is."

"Well, I can't help it if it is dead."

In the court room, before the gaze of the spectators, when the judge and the assistant city attorney lectured the woman, she maintained her stolid indifference. The court threatened that if after she had served the sentence imposed she should be brought before him again on a similar charge she would receive the maximum sentence.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following real estate transfers were filed with the county recorder yesterday: Joseph L. Carlson to George T. Terrell, part of lot 9, block 19, plat A., $2,325; Elizabeth Ennis to A. R. Haywood, part of lot 4, block 12, plat A., $5,600; Lucy S. McDermott to Samantha J. Farrell, part of lot 9, block 31, plat A., $1; Samantha J. Farrell to Samantha J. McDermott, part of lot 9, block 31, plat A., $1; T. D. McDermott and wife to Gertrude L. Man, part of lots 3 and 6, block 4, South Ogden survey, $1,100.

Ogden Briefs.

MCCARDLE IS BACK.—Henry H. McCadle, son of E. P. McCadle, returned yesterday from Ohio and other eastern states, where he spent the greater portion of the summer.

LABOR DAY HOURS.—The following hours will be observed at the Ogden post office on Labor day: No delivery by carriers. General delivery stamps, registering and carrier's windows open from 10 to 11 o'clock in the morning. Money order department closed.

MRS. WOODS' FUNERAL.—The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Woods will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the First ward meeting house. Friends will be received at the home, 1325 Thirtieth street, from 10 to 1 o'clock. Burial will be made in the City cemetery.

BURGLAR FOILED.—A burglar about

LLOYD DIVORCE TRIAL ENDED BY JUDGE WHO REFUSES TO GRANT A DECREE

A despondent husband and wife left Judge Morse's court room yesterday afternoon. The wife, a well dressed, slender woman, with some right to be called pretty, led a 2-year-old flaxen-haired boy. The husband, a short, heavy-set man, with little claim to being handsome, followed with his attorney.

The cause of the despondency of both was their failure to secure a divorce. The wife was Maud E. B. Lloyd and the husband William M. Lloyd. All day Thursday and part yesterday their troubles were aired in the court.

Then the stern judge stepped in. He declared that the evidence on both sides showed that there had been a reconciliation as late as July 4 last, and for that reason no divorce could be granted.

It appears that the complaint was filed May 10 by the wife, and that the husband's answer and cross-complaint was filed June 24. On July 4 the judge, according to the undisputed testimony, came to Salt Lake from Sandy and remained at his wife's boarding house with her for a day or more. For this reason the judge decided that all the trouble both had gone to was of no avail.

The case had many sensational features, serious charges being made against the characters of each of the parties to the suit.

John H. Hoar of Bingham Junction was the first witness for the husband yesterday. Hoar lays claim to being a ventriloquist, a collector and a detective. He said that he had overheard Mrs. Lloyd make the following remark when asked where her child was:

"I poured whiskey down the d— kid's throat and put him to sleep."

Emma Benson, a sister of Mrs. Lloyd, was on the stand yesterday morning. Emma attempted to tell how she knew a man was drunk when asked how she ascertained that Lloyd was in that condition to force an entrance to the home of James Hancock at 2222 Jefferson avenue about 8 o'clock yesterday morning was frightened away by a watch-dog. The occupants were aroused in time to see the burglar disappear over the back fence.

FENSTERMAKER BURIAL.—The funeral of Mrs. Mary H. Fenstermaker will be held at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Fourth ward meeting house. Friends will be received at the home, 1329 Steele avenue, from 10 to 3 o'clock on day of burial. Burial will be made in the City cemetery.

CALLAND $3,700 SHORT.—According to reports from semi-official sources, the shortage of former Claim Adjuster C. H. Calland of the Short Line has been figured out to be $3,700. As yet the railroad people have been unable to secure any trace of the missing adjuster, who disappeared about ten days ago.

HEAVY RAINSTORM.—A heavy rain-storm struck Ogden early yesterday morning and continued for some time, filling the gutters and flooding the streets in many places. For the first time this season snow fell on the mountains east of the city. This is taken as an indication that there will be an early fall and winter this year.

SECTION MAN DIES.—R. B. Boyd, the section man who lost an arm being run down by a Short Line switch engine in the local yards Thursday, never recovered from the shock and died at the Ogden general hospital yesterday morning, where he had been taken for treatment. He was 65 years of age and so far as is known had no relatives in this section of the country.

LITTLE FUNERAL.—The funeral of William Henry Little, who dropped dead in the Central hotel a few days ago, will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the First ward meeting house. The remains will lie in state at the Linquist undertaking parlors from 10 a. m. to 7 p. m. today. The body will be taken to the home of Mrs. B. Wright, a daughter of the deceased, at 3226 Adams avenue, where friends will be received from 10 to 12 o'clock tomorrow. Interment will be in the City cemetery.

SHAM BATTLE PLANS.—Those who are arranging for the big sham battle planned to be held in this city on September 2, returned from Salt Lake yesterday, where they secured cannon from the state armory to be used in connection with the event. Arrangements were also perfected for the troops who will participate in the affair. It is probable that the occasion will extend over two days, giving a good battle on the second day. In the evening it is planned that there will be an old-fashioned campfire.

CHOIR LEAVES TODAY.—The Ogden tabernacle choir, which leaves today for Sacramento, where they open the National Irrigation congress by singing McClellan's "Ode to Irrigation," gave a concert at the tabernacle last evening that was liberally patronized. The work of the choir, as well as that of the soloists, was the best that has as yet been presented here by that organization. There was a marked improvement in the work of the choir, the work of which was especially well received by the audience.

STORM ON THE LAKE.—Another heavy storm passed over the Great Salt Lake during Thursday night. The waves were thrown many feet in the air and the Southern Pacific tracks on the Ogden-Latin cut-off were for a large part of the time completely submerged. While the railroad property was not damaged, traffic was greatly interfered with during the night. On account of the danger attending the undertaking, the railroad people delayed trains from passing over this place of track until after these storms abate.

on the numerous occasions she claimed she had seen him.

"I could tell it by his walk, his talk and his breath," she declared.

"Then you know the smell of liquor?"

"Yes."

"Have you ever taken a drink?"

"Why, yes, I have taken a drink or two; I can't deny that."

The name of Thomas Culver, who is accused by the husband of being intimate with his wife, was brought into the examination, and Emma declared that she had gone to several dances with him.

Emma is a buxom young woman. She wore a broad Mexican straw hat, which well fitted her countenance.

When the case was dismissed, Lloyd was on the stand, his own belief and was telling of the alleged indiscretions of his wife.

BACHELOR LOSES NERVE.

Ready to Relinquish Babe Adopted One Week Ago.

S. T. Vickery has evidently decided that a bachelor is not the proper person to care for infants. A week ago he was allowed to adopt Vera Lucile Cowley, an eight-month-old baby, left at his home by the mother.

Alonso Hibbard and wife of Bingham yesterday petitioned the district court to be allowed to rescind the child's adoption, stating that Vickery consents to give her up. If the application is granted the babe will have had three names since its birth, the first being Cowley, the next Vickery and the last Hibbard.

VISIT NEW BRICK PLANT

Architects and Their Families Guests of the Kaysville Brick Company.

The architects of Salt Lake closed their offices yesterday afternoon and, with their families, went to Kaysville to inspect the newly-completed brickyard and manufacturing plant of the Kaysville Brick company.

The members of the party, numbering about 160 people, were the guests of the brickyard people, and made the trip over the Bamberger line, returning to the Lagoon at 6 o'clock, where they were guests at a delightful dinner in the cafe at the resort. The spread was epicurean in nature, and served royally.

At the brickyard the architects saw what is unquestionably one of the most modern and best equipped plants west of the Missouri river. The Kaysville Brick company owns fifty acres of the finest brick clay known. It is fifty feet deep, the upper six feet of clay being used to make red pressed brick, and the rest for other shades. Next year a steam shovel will handle the clay. This year the mud is scraped by teams and hauled to the dump carts. These are run up onto a high trestle, and by electricity carried to the mixer, where it is kneaded into proper shape for the presser.

The architects saw the great kneading machine at work, saw the long strip of clay, the size of a brick come steadily from the mouth of the machine and the wire cutter chop it into bricks.

The pressed bricks are pressed into shape instead of being cut by wire. The common brick, or wire-cut, are burned in six great kilns, each holding 450,000 bricks.

Two of these kilns are burning alway and the others are being refilled or cooling off. The pressed bricks are burned in down draught kilns, three in number, each holding 60,000 bricks. The company can put 130,000 brick a day on the local market. The company own ground machines for making chimney blocks, conduits, flower pots and a dozen other things. These will be put in operation next year. The company has invested about $75,000 in the plant.

All the machinery is electrically driven, the Utah Light & Railway company furnishing the power.

TO RELIEVE FUEL SHORTAGE

Rexburg Will Ship in Cordwood From Upper Yellowstone Branch.

Rexburg, Ida., Aug. 23.—Efforts are being made to see that Rexburg is not without fuel this winter. The Rexburg Milling company has arranged to ship cord wood from the upper part of the Yellowstone branch to Rexburg. One lot of 20 cords will be gotten out in the near future. It is estimated that the wood can be sold at Rexburg depot for $4.40 per cord. We are now paying $6 per cord when hauled by team from the mountains east of town. A number of people have chartered cars and will load and ship a carload of twelve cords for their own use. In this way they will be able to get their wood for about $2.50 or $3 per ton. Coal is now $8.25 per ton, delivered. The coal situation is no better and the chances are that it will be worse during the cold winter. In the present stage of development the Teton valley mines cannot supply this section and when hauled to this point is rather expensive at $10 to $12 per ton.

The recent rains delayed harvesting a little. It is now clear again and binders and mowers have resumed work.

The second crop of alfalfa is being cut. The light frost of a few nights ago did no damage to the alfalfa and very little to the grain crops.

The Ricks academy will begin its twentieth academic year on the 19th of September. Workmen are now overhauling the heating plant and making changes in preparation for the season's work. Last year the enrollment was nearly 400. It is expected that a greater number will be in attendance this year.

The district school will open on the 9th of September. Nearly all the teachers of last year have been re-engaged, in both the district school and the academy.

Dr. Alexander and daughter Jessica have returned from the fair at Jamestown. They were gone about a month, and visited all the principal cities of the east.

The militia boys returned from their encampment at Camp Mead Thursday evening.

Julius Larsen was brought home from camp last evening very sick. Today it developed that he had diphtheria. The family is now quarantined.

Miss Floretta Ricks, daughter of Thomas Ricks, and James N. Webster, Jr., son of Mayor J. N. Webster, left Tuesday evening for Salt Lake City, where they were married in the temple Thursday. They will make their home in Salt Lake City for the present.

On Friday evening, Aug. 23, Miss Ricks was given a china shower by a number of her lady friends and on Saturday a tin shower by the Primary of the First ward, of which she was an officer.

Harold Hyde, the 3-year-old son of Dr. George E. Hyde, died on Monday at 11 a. m., after a short illness with croup. This disease developed so rapidly that it was impossible for medical aid to save the boy. Funeral services were held at the home on Tuesday.

A farewell social was given in the First ward meeting house on Tuesday evening in honor of W. J. Flowers, who will leave Friday evening to fill a three years' mission in the Hawaiian islands.

BREWERS PREFERRED.

Ministers' Union Cast Out of Trades and Labor Assembly.

La Crosse, Wis., Aug. 30.—The Ministers' union, organized only a few weeks ago and soon after affiliated with the Trades and Labor assembly, was officially cast out yesterday by that body and refused permission to march in the Labor day parade.

This action was the result of complaints by brewery workers, who claimed that the recent agitation against the saloons had resulted in an injury to the Brewery Workers' union.

ARCHBISHOP DYING.

Boston, Aug. 30.—The venerable Archbishop John J. Williams of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Boston, who returned from Rochester, N. Y., last week, where he was taken seriously ill, was in such serious condition today that the last sacrament was administered.
